Chateau La Fleur des Pins
Graves Superieures

Chateau La Fleur des Pins is owned by Chateau Haut Bergeron, Sauternes. Graves Superieures is a relatively unknown appellation, most Chateaux in this area prefer to make either red or dry whites. Chateau La Fleur des Pins is made in the same style as Haut Bergeron and goes through a intense fruit selection at the time of harvest. Rather than harvesting all at once. The fruit is picked anywhere from 8-12 times before the final selection is made. It is then vinified in the same style as Sauternes and aged in new French Oak for 12 months. 25,000 bottles are produced each year. When tasted blind among Bordeaux top Sauternes Chateau La Fleur des Pins is always selected as one of the top Sauternes yet the price is 30% of the average Sauternes.

2006 Chateau La Fleur des Pin - A classic deep golden-orange color, and the nose carries handsome aromas of oranges, marmalade, quince, and a little pleasing botrytis character. The palate is fresh, loaded with typical flavors. The texture is very good and the finish is long and delicate. This Graves Superieures is comparable with many top Sauternes.
